

Title: Closing webinar of the Scientific Panel for Health - Recommendations for health research in Europe - Design for Impact

The Scientific Panel for Health (SPH), established under Horizon 2020, is coming to its close as the framework period ends. During this online event, the panel will share its final recommendations for health research in Europe, developed through extensive stakeholder engagement over the last five years.

The SPH is a science-led stakeholder platform that is designed to provide a coherent scientific analysis of research and innovation opportunities related to health, among other tasks.

This final event will see the SPH share its final recommendations with stakeholders under the title 'Recommendations for health research in Europe - design for impact'.
